I met Dustin 23 August, 2008. I was supposed to meet him yesterday- 3 September 2008- at church. But I didnt have a ride. It was his last day here in SC, I really wanted to see him. Today was hard for me because I woke up knowing that I wouldn't see him again for a while. I miss him already. His birthday is coming up- 7 September 2008- Sunday. He will be 19 and that's where the problem comes in. You see, I am only 15, i will be 16 in Decemer. I haven't told him that I like him yet, but i think he already knows. At least we email each other almost every day. If I haven't told you, he went to Iraq. At least I have communication with him while he is in Iraq. I must admit, I regret a lot of things, but I dont regret meeting Dustin. He treats me with the utmost care. He is an absolute great guy and fun to be around. I can really be myself around him. I can tell him everything, at least that's what it seems like. I trust him with all my heart.

It's been a whole day, and I haven't talked to him. If you count today, it's been 2 days that I haven't talked to him. It bugs me. Idk if he is ok or not. It's funny, I act like his gf, if he had one. I wish I could be his gf, but lets not get into that. Idk when or if he gets to ever come back for a visit again this year. At least we still talk by email, sometimes. I just wish me and him could talk on the phone. I miss his graet voice. Other than looks, he's got the greatest personality in the world. He is the sweetest guy I have ever met. I kinda wish i were a better person. I have major attitude problems, but just the fact that I really like him, makes me wish I was as great as he is. It's pretty great that he is serving our country, but I wish I could see him again. Dustin is one of the best people I have ever met. Idk what he thinks of me. Idk what to do, he is tghe closest thing to perfection. I just felt a connection that day when he held me and comforted me after me and my bf had the hugest fight ever. I wonder if he thinks of me when/while he is in Iraq- then again, he probably thinks about all his friends and family. I cant wait to talk to him again. I have never felt closer to anyone else. He's like my best friend. His opinion matters most to me. What he thinks of me matters most to me. I have a picture of him on my phone. It's my wallpaper for my phone. The song "Stronger" by Kanye West is his ring tone for when he calls me. I look at his picture a lot, even at school. It keeps me motivated. I don't want to disappoint him.
