this is cool! now i have my own place to post stuff, write, etc...whatev. ok, what i really want to say is tell a bit about myself. i am rebecca, and i am thirteen. i have a brother who is a year older than me and obviously my parents, along with my new puppy Tazz. i live in sydney, australia, which is awesome. i love it here. i am going to visit Hawaii (maui to be specific on which island) for the summer, which is summer in the united states but winter here in Aussie Land. i have a friend who lives in New Zealand (which isn't too far away from here...but it is still not very close) and we keep in touch often. i should tell her to make a blog on here...wouldn't that be cool? anyways, yeah. a friend told me these two websites: www.ihasahotdog.com and www.ihasacheezburger.com. i haven't checked them out. i wonder if they're good? well, got to go. i will write later!!!

well, its been a few days since i've written-Wednesday already! Tazz is learning to do tricks now-my brother Cole is actually teaching him-but still. He can sit, stand up, roll over, beg, jump over hurdles (they're really just logs though), and stuff like that. my friends are kind of being annoying-one is trying to be a 'pleaser' with the guy she likes. she knows that it will make us happy if she says she likes this guy, so she does. and then she won't let any of us (her friends, sorry) talk to him or anything. it's getting annoying-and old. my other friend is caught up in all of this love stuff. the guy she's been crushing on since january has been talking to her. he liked her in february but she's not sure if he likes her now...but what can you do? i don't like anyone at the moment, but probably someone will just jump into my sight. if you get what i mean. my other friend is in charge of making costumes for a little kid's band of two poeple-a girl and a guy. my other friend was giving her advice-and she's just going to "ditch" the band because when they're practicing, they're horrible! i really want to visit New Zealand soon-i got a letter back from my friend there-her name is Tia. i think she'd like it here or she'd like it if i went there. i'm going to tell tia to make a account on here so we can post on each other's messages, things like that.

see you next time, Becca :-)
