Cole 12-3-10 1:29am

Hello, Cole one simple name that i have been thinking about for the last week. Why is this you must ask good question because me, myself dont even know the answer to this question. Well he is 17 and he works at Kings. Weird i know but i cant help how i feel. So how to describe him to the world. Well he is super adorable, like i could hug him forever because he is just like a teddy bear so lovable and warm. He does give teh best hug which would be the reason that i compared to a bear. AW. Anyway the way he treats me is so kind and nice most of the time but i cant help but to think is he lying does he really care? Why i say this its because he always says how he wants to ang out with me and stuff but he never asks me to hang out. is he nervous does he just not like me. Someday i love talking to him and i just want to ask do you like me like "like like" me or you just want to hook up or do just wanna be freinds or is this all apart of a littlegame he likes to play with girls. The wonders i=of every girl im sure. There was a situation tonight that did not go the way i had hoped. The night previous to tonight I had asked Cole to go to a certain friends restruant to support her for one of her 2st days serving. The answer that he told me is that "i will try". what the hell does that mean! So of course being myself I automatically think the worst. i text back, " So thats a no". He says i have a family thing tomorrow i have to ask my dad what time its happening. In my head im like of course that is the likely story, If he really didnt want to hang out why didnt he just tell mee... harder than it seems i guess i could give him the benifit of the doubt. But he texts me later "im sorry dont be mad" of course said that i wasnt cause i wasnt i was just dissapointed. but then i was messing around with him being kind of mean. then i text him after a while and he never texts back. It was early to, what am I suppose to think? Does he hate me now? like really oh god im done with this time to end the story with cole in it. I think that sounds like a great solution. LOVE It
