life

today at school was okay but i came late...why? because i was tired and slept in too late. My parent had a talk with me after i woke up saying I needed to be motivated and maybe WCA(my school) wasn't the right place for me. They think i get depressed alot and don't care about my grades or school. But i really do care! I am just started to get used to this year at school making way more friends than i had last year and getting closer to God. I still get sad but hey i am a teenager and changing! well as always the grass seems greener on the other side and i am starting to think maybe starting over isn't a bad idea but then all the friends I made will be gone and wasted. I just need to think over alot.

confused

Today I had a great day til i got home. Man whenever i come home from school my family makes me feel like i have a million problems. I know i have problems but everyone does. My counselor said that my convos are so emotionally intense lol and i was like What?? Meaning I am either really happy or really sad..well i knew that but i thought i was getting better...i guess i still have to work on it :) I miss my friend ashley and i am scared of not being close anymore because she moved schools..and i might move schools because of my grades so i don't want to not be close with my friends anymore...that would be horrible! I LOVE MY FRIENDS! Well ya here is a kinda poem or song i wrote lol i hope its not stupid to u guys but hey i like it! it isn't about anyone i know lol i just made it up when i was bored :)

don't pass me by, remember me ,don't forget.

i know u have many friends but you and me,

promised to be there for each other till the end

as we both move on

remember this song

i know you and you know me

we always could talk easily

the moments we shared

showed me you cared.

you said you'll always be there

but now your no longer here.

our lives are going different ways, but please remember and don't walk away.

today is the day that i'll say

I love you. :)

Living for God! On the right path!

Last night i went to a concert called hillsong united and i dedicated my life to God! Well i thought before i was a christian but i really was confused....like i became a christian when i was 3 year old, but i did it out of fear and like i thought i would never sin. I started understanding more as i grew up but i never gave my heart or like soul to God.....my whole heart! i knew God was real and the bible but i didn't feel loved and didn't trust him. Last night Wed. I was at the christian hillsong united concert and everything just clicked I felt God and prayed and said i wanted him! I gave my pain, sin, worries, joy, happiness, sadness, anger EVERYTHING to God! The music was amazing and i was praising God. I didn't feel alone and i realized that he truly loved me and that i couldn't do anything on my own only God could help me. :) I am happy and i feel peaceful and like i am on the right path and living for God!!!!!! I will still sin and mess up but i have Gods forgiveness and love and nothing can replace that :) <3

how is it that things can change so fast...i mean i still feel like i have god in my heart but man its so hard....my parents blocked the internet and that stupid....and i got in a huge fight with my friends last week. We are good now but i still feel all screwed up...and my parents don't make me feel better about it. i am off the a.d.d medicine and my friend rachel said that i seem not so up and down with my emotions but i still have this emptiness in me...and i am trusting God..what is wrong jezz.....( i just want to feel loved and i have this loneliness in me still....thanksgiving was great with my cousins but like everyone is growing up sooooo fast lol its kinda funny looking at everyone and seeing how diff. we all look. i will write in u soon but for now i have to go. bye.

doing better

Sorry i haven't been here in a while! but i am back! Life has taken a turn and now i am doing better. &lt;e an dmy dad got in&nbsp; huge fight and he pushed me and i got scared....but then he said sorry. For awhile i wouldn't even look at him but we are doing better. Life at school is going better and i now am making more friends. Like my friend becky who i met this year. I now also have a new crush and for vday he gave me flowers because some mean kid played a prank on me and made me cry but aj( the boy i like) cheered me up.I got on some depression meds. and i am getting closer to God which is good and i feel truly happy.

life changed for one second and now is back to normal

All of my friends are frustrated with em and need space. They say they can't open up to me and that i called them bad friends. I don't even remember saying that but i know i did. I feel like i am a bad person and above all bad friend. I thought life was all good and i was doing better now i am back where i started. Why is God doing this to me again? What have i done? ughh well get back to you soon

Love at first sight?

Dear Journal,

Life has been so idk wonderful lately. School is going much better and i am in a play now. I got one of the main parts.

lol i am the evil goblin queen int the play irnea and curidie. I now have new friends and enjoying life much better. My new friends are loyal and wonderful. They are my kind of style deep. I am still going to counseling and it is helping alot. Since that one time i hurt myself, i have learned form my trial of my past and am now moving foreard on life. Back to the play it is in a week and i have nevr been so excited. I am still taking guitar and love it. It helps bring out my emotions. And i have a kinda love life going on. His name is Sam and we have been talking non stop lately. IU just liek him as a friend but he really likes me. We talk about everything..he know like everythign about me and still likes me for me. i showed him the real Joann and he loved it. A part of me wanted to like him afriad i would never have a "love" like this again but the other half said no jsut friends. I think i made the right choiced iun staying frineds but in the future who knows? the reason i ahve been making new firnedds is becasue i lately discover that alot of my friends have been gossiping about me. They said i was a worrier who didn't have any self condfidenece and need to go with the flow. Well people i son't go with the flow...i am Joann Johnson the up and dpwn girl who is different. Talk to you soon journal.
