American Shopping, Christmas 2010

Ready to buy an iPad and don't want to break the bank? What do you do? Homeshipping.com provides clients the convenience of their own USA address. This is important because Amazon.com and most other USA online shopping sites may refuse to ship their products overseas. Homeshipping.com bridges the gap between you (the consumer overseas) and the shopping sites in the USA as well as the other way around with US residents shipping to Australia or another overseas location, especially for the holidays.

At the click of a mouse everything reaches your own home just in time for the right event. Aside from saving time, most items purchased online because the client cannot find the item in their own country, or if they do find the item, it may cost them three times the original price when shipping to Saudi Arabia We've been delivering boxes of gifts and purchases from the USA since 1995 to selective clients worldwide. Today, any student, Mom, Small business owner can order online from the USA and get his shipments delivered Door to Door to his home.

Our service is absolutely free. No set up fees, No monthly service. Place your order online and forward it your new USA address. Once the shipment is received at our warehouse, we will immediately notify you by email or online to advise you the cost of shipping.

Then we will await your instructions: to ship or to hold and ship with another coming shipment to save money. As the holiday season gets into full swing, online shopping and international freight services really picks up. It is a delightful way to find presents you would not find so easily close to home and you get to avoid the crowds. Online Shopping has many advantages, especially if you are shopping for family and friends who are far away. There is no need to ship the presents by going to a crowded post office and simply waiting in queues for your turn. Shopping online will take care of everything including international shipping

The challenge can be deciding where to shop. That's why; we've combined the largest shopping sites to give you full control over your purchases. For additional information, please visit www.homeshipping.com/ to learn more.

international shipping - What's The Word On Sharing Containers?

When you are relocating to a different country and concerned that the expenses of moving are going to be tremendous? The general consensus about moving abroad is that it is very expensive, however it doesn't have to be that way. Container sharing splits the

international shipping costs between multiple families so that the costs are significantly less. If you are moving to New York or China you will be able to share a container which will significantly reduce your shipping costs. Container sharing is determined by the amount of feet your items take up in a shipping container. All you have to do is determine where you are shipping out of and where you want your items to end up and then the rest is up to the international shipping company

Shipping to Germany

or another overseas location by container sharing is completely safe and secure; in which you can even request insurance just in case there are complications. With container sharing you are diversifying not only the cost but the risk as well with the other people you are sharing your container with. Moving or shipping to Saudi Arabia

any other international country can become quite expensive very quickly, but it doesn't have to be. By packing up your own items, you will be saving a good amount of money right there. If you are in a time crunch, however it may be more applicable to use the expertise of a international moving company so that they can pack you up in the most efficient manner. Also, when moving internationally you want to make sure that all of your fragile items are packed very well so there are no damages.

Because drop up and pick up times will work around your schedule, container sharing will also help you to make your move more efficient. So there are no conflicts with customs, the international shipper will take care of everything in that regard. Sharing a container will also help you to diversify your costs because moving internationally can become quite expensive. Usually if someone is taking a job in a foreign country, their company will pay for all of the moving expenses so you might not be in such a bind. In this case you want to make sure that you get the right insurance so that your items are completely safe.

By taking these precautions, you can avoid disputes if something gets broken during the move. Saving money and time is very valuable to both the customers and movers that is why so many people are starting to take advantage of the low costs of container sharing. Why not start off on the right foot in the new country, but having everything already planned and organized. You will be able to fully enjoy your first days in your new home without any problems or hiccups down the road. Container Sharing is a great way to move across the country or internationally as it allows flexibility and affordability in both respects. For

International shipping - Shipping to UK- Ship Luggage and More in Your Travels

When it comes to traveling, there are some things that you just can't take with you. If you are taking a vacation across the pond, you should consider shipping to UK for your luggage and other items that you can't take on the plane.

International shipping is a great solution for all of your traveling needs, including shipping luggage. Being able to generate shipping rate quotes instantly can save you a lot of money, especially when you're traveling on an airline that charges high fees for excess baggage.

All that you have to do when it comes to shipping to UK is complete the paperwork, generate the quotes for the service and select the actual service that you want, and then pay and print your shipping labels. Luggage shipping, whether international or domestic shipping, is really that simple. It doesn't matter whether you're shipping a few pieces of luggage or a dozen, because international shipping can be simple and easy. When the order is complete, you will get confirmation about the details of your order, when your shipment will be picked up and when it will be delivered. You will have the choice of airfreight, ocean freight, ground service, and truck services for your needs.

It doesn't matter what you're shipping to UK.

Whether you need to price

shipping

autos

household goods shipping

, or any other type of services when you are traveling to the UK, you can find what you need. There are a variety of instant shipping calculators that can help with everything from

shipping

boxes

to more complex issues like shipping larger items or supplies that you will be taking on your travels. International shipping services are available online with just a few clicks of the mouse, which makes it more accessible than ever for people who are looking to ship internationally.

In addition to all of the services above, you can also find a variety of conversion calculators and other international shipping tools for shipping to the UK. Whether you need to convert pounds to kilograms, convert currency, or find telephone codes you can find it all at homeshipping.com. Traveling internationally is always a little more complicated than people imagine, but with the right services and international shipping tools, it can be an enjoyable experience. Take the hassle out of shipping to UK, because there is no easier way to ship your items than with services like homeshipping.com.

international shipping - Summer Shipping For Students

Parents and students can save on both

international shipping

and domestic shipping

this summer by going to a professional shipping company and avoid increased fees. Summer, for students, generally means either graduation or a break between school terms, and oftentimes when they are off at school out of state, this means they need to budget in travel and shipping expenses (along with leisure activities like trips, shopping, etc., all the things that make summer fun).

International shipping

rates vary according to destination, type of package/item being shipped, fuel prices, customs, and a number of other factors. A lot of the guesswork can be taken out when students leave their shipping activities in the capable hands of shipping specialists who are able to move shipments with the top carriers in the shipping industry, and save over 50% on their shipping cost. Similar to online travel sites, people who ship with international shipping services are able to navigate through rates, services and carriers quickly and select the best option for their shipping requirements.

Shipping companies contract major carriers in the shipping industry, negotiate the lowest rates in the market and pass the discounts to parents and students. They connect the shippers to the carrier, and the shipper saves on not just the shipping costs themselves, but the overall costs involved in shipping both domestic and international shipments.

When moving or shipping after graduation, it's another significant milestone in a student's life, of relocating his or her entire livelihood over to a new place (or in some cases, a familiar environment: home). There are many things the student will have on the student's mind when making this important transition: securing all their academic records, saying farewell to friends and colleagues, packing, switching utilities, securing personal travel transportation, summer jobs/internships, and so on.

That's a lot for a student to consider. On top of that, shipping his or her goods to the new destination would be another item to take care of during this sometimes hectic transition period. A professional shipping service can not only take care of this aspect of moving, but can save the shipper a significant amount of money in the process.

There are many reasons to go with an international shipping service over going at it alone. A shipping company has the capability to reach and negotiate competitive shipping rates with a wide range of couriers, saving shippers the difference. In this way, shipping becomes hassle free and cost effective for the shipper. For additional information, visit

International Students Shipping Specialist

Homeshipping.com has been helping international Students move their books, and personal belongings from the USA to over 220 countries. There are remarkable new ways that are being used to control the shipping cost for International Students. HomeShipping.com has developed a new website to help Students in general and International Students in Particular who are living in the USA and plan one day to move back home to control their international shipping

cost.

Let me tell you why we created this program.
We've found that Internatio nal Students are continually frustrated by not being able to get the most out of their money. Frustrated by paying higher shipping rates that they have to, by working with shipping companies who don't seem to know what they're doing, by shipping with a company that doesn't seem to have their best interest at heart, students can end up paying more than they need to on shipping.

These things have personally frustrated me when I was an International Student, and still frustrating other International Students today. That's why HomeShipping.com has created this shipping-controlling system that makes it possible for International Students to receive the most preferential treatment in international freight shipping

their books, furniture, projects, autos, documents and other belongings while paying the least for it. Though it may sound too good to be true, let me please explain how we propose to go about doing that for the International Students. HomeShipping.com is designed to do three things for International Students:

First, it enables us to know what specifically bothers the International Students about shipping their belongings. Because we know as an established

international shipping company

that shipping has to be personally tailored to each and every one of our students, in order to do that we empowered the International Students by receiving four instant shipping results detailing shipping methods that the International Students may not have thought about. By answering few questions about the shipment's details, we are well on our way to helping the International Student get what he wants. Once you have answered these questions, the system will instantly generate several domestic and

international shipping

rates from any zip code in the USA to destinations worldwide. By doing so, the International Student is going to: (1) be on the inside of the shipping winners circle with people who are in the know; (2) use money wisely when shipping belongings; and (3) gain full control over their shipping needs.

HomeShipping.com is a licensed FMC (Federal Maritime Commission (Government Body), NVOCC (Non vessel operating common carrier), and IATA (International Air Transport Association). We have been moving International Student's belongings since 1995. Our service is inclusive of US customs documentation, certificate of origin, and AES filing.

Homeshipping.com

gives students full control over quoting, booking and processing shipments online. You can instantly generate shipping rates FOR DIFFERENT SHIPPING MODES. When shipping abroad, be sure to plan well in advance and compare rates. Homeshipping.com has been a shipping guide for international students since 1995.

How does it work?

Complete the shipment details.

Generate the quote and select the desired service

Make your payment SECURELY online, and print your labels.

international shipping -The Best International Shipping Option

The

international shipping

industry continues to evolve in step with an ever-changing global landscape with regard to commerce and socio-economic dynamics at a macro level. Not exercising a firm grasp on the varied nuances of customs alone can thwart the delivery of a shipment from point A to point B, which can mean losses in revenue, time, and other non-quantifiable terms. These costs can impede business operations as well as personal shipping when moving out of state or out of the country.

When you work with a professional

international shipping company

, shipping specialists can broker competitive rates and coordinate all necessary shipping details, including clearing shipments large and small through customs. For obvious reasons, the difference between shipping something from California to Utah and

shipping to Germany

is vast with regards to time required for ensuring delivery completion, navigating through a labyrinth of customs laws, etc. As an analogy, attempting to tackle international shipping on your own would be tantamount to undertaking a major automobile repair, ie. rebuilding a transmission when you are not an auto mechanic by trade. Such an enterprise would prove immensely challenging and most likely unsuccessful in that you would lack the expertise and tools to complete the work in a satisfactory manner.

Both

and less-than-container shipping are similarly involving, labor intensive, and always in flux depending on global fuel price fluctuations, geopolitical climates, and so forth (the equivalent in the auto repair industry would be the advent of hybrid technology, new vehicle models with different internal components and designs, etc.). Shipping companies coordinate with you to suit your delivery requirements as well as the budget you're working with. This is what they do on a 24 hours a day 7 days a week basis. They arrange quick, cost-effective shipping solutions for the rest of us who don't specialize in the field of sending shipments all around the world. Shipping goods to overseas destinations, especially important items such as personal belongings (when relocating), merchandise (when shipping for business purposes), and everything in between is generally best left to specialists. There are a few things you could take a calculated risk with, but international shipping can hardly be considered one of them. Lost merchandise, personal effects (some of which may be irreplaceable), can create a very undesirable situation that can be avoided in the first place if the task was entrusted to a dependable shipping company. US Customs Requirements In The USA

US Customs requires a commercial invoice and a asking list for a commercial invoices when

shipping
to Israel

and other overseas destinations

US Customs may require a packing list for individual shipment if subject to inspection

US Customs has the right to stop, and inspect any shipment

shipping
to India

or other countries as they desire

US Customs will view the paper work on the shipment and accordingly decide if shipment will be inspected

If ordered for inspection, the customer may be responsible to pay for the inspection fees

Even if the inspection was initiated by the US Customs, the client will always pay for the inspection fees (if any)

Around 5% of our shipments are randomly stopped by US Customs for inspection

First they are subject to review

Then they may conduct an X-ray exam

Then, they may ask for more inspection, depending on the shipment that is

shipping
to Germany

or any international destinations.

A tail gate exam is common for containers, if the suspected anything not up to standards

Other smaller shipments like boxes, luggage or even pallets

shipping
to Australia

and other countries may be subject to penning and inspection (only on rare occasions)

If they still do not like what they see, they may ask for an intensive exam

US Custom contracts a third party company to do all the logistics from moving the container to unloading to loading when and other

The problem is the customer has to pay all the inspection exams to the third party company

6- What Documents do I need?

1-

Commercial Invoice:

A Commercial Invoice is used when you ship anything that is not a document. For example a pencil that is worth $0.01 is not a document and still needs an invoice when you ship it international. Shipments that are non-documents are called dutiable (or subject to Customs Duty).

The invoice should have the following:

For companies:

Complete on the shipper's company stationery in the English language

Must contain the shipper's company complete address, telephone number and fax, and be signed by the shipper or its agent.

An accurate and complete description of goods is necessary for Customs purposes.

For individual:

Create your invoice on a blank white paper and include the following;

Shipper's name, address, telephone number and email address in the English language

Receiver's name, address, telephone number and email address in the English language

Brief Description of the goods shipped

The value of the goods, preferably broken down piece by piece

international shipping - How To Pack And Ship A Bike

There comes a time in every cyclist's life when they must ship their precious steed somewhere new. This is not exactly reliable when

shipping
to India

and other destinations thanks to the dedication of today's postal workers, but if you box your bike correctly, and luck is on your side, your bike may arrive at its final destination in good shape.

What you need:

A bike

Bike box

Newspaper

Bubble wrap

Cardboard tubes

Packing tape

Fork block

Allen wrench

Pedal wrench

Step 1: Get a box.

The easiest way to get a bicycle-specific box for your international

shipping

needs is to go to your local bike shop and ask for one that will fit your bike. Most shops have extra boxes sitting around that they'll give you for free, and they might even give you some padding and accessories like a fork block or extra cardboard.

(Be sure to remove any old shipping labels from the box.)

Step 2: Wash your bike.

Clean off your bike; you don't want to be messing around with a dirty bike when you are

shipping
to United Kingdom

or any other shipping location.

While you're at it... If your bike has gears, shift to the largest rear cog and chain-ring before boxing the bike. And deflate your tires a little bit.

Step 3: Remove parts.

Remove the handlebar, pedals, seatpost, and front wheel. Then stick the fork block in the front fork dropouts to protect them and prevent them from poking through the box.

Turn the fork and stem so they are facing backwards, and put the handlebar parallel to the frame. Taking these steps before

shipping
to Australia

to other destinations is very important.

Step 4: Packing materials.

Wrap all the tubes with paper, bubble wrap, and/or cardboard tubing to prevent scratching. Be sure to pad around the brakes and derailleurs.

Step 5: Secure the bike.

Attach the handlebar and other parts to the frame securely with tape and be sure to pad them, too. Small parts such as pedals can be put in a small box and then put in the bike box.

Step 6: Put the bike in the box.

Now hopefully the bike and parts will slide nicely into the bike box. Be sure you have taped everything securely so that nothing rattles inside the box. Good luck :)

Step 7: Ship it.

Pay UPS about $20-40 so they will ship it to your destination in 3-5 days!

international shipping - Shipping cosmetics overseas

In 1992 we delivered the first cosmetics shipment to Beirut Lebanon. It was Obagi skin care products. Since then we have helped hundreds of clients

shipping
to Germany

and other worldwide destinations to move their cosmetic-related products all over the globe. After you have established a relationship with the supplier, you need to find a reliable shipping service to move your shipments from the supplier or suppliers in the USA when

shipping
to Saudi Arabia

or another overseas destination. Sometimes, the supplier will recommend a shipping company to handle your shipment, and you may feel that would be your only choice.

It's not!!

Today, technology plays a big part in importing from the USA. There are hundreds, maybe thousands of shipping companies

shipping
to United Kingdom

and many locations to choose from.

Here are four tips to watch for when choosing your freight forwarder who is

shipping
to Australia

or any other worldwide location:

1- What License do they have?

A) FMC (Federal Maritime Commission) Government Body

B) IATA (International Aviation Transportation Agency)

C) FAA - TSA approved

2- How long have the company been in business. Typically, a freight forwarder who has been in business for over 10 years, shows more knowledge and stability as new comers

3- Are they fully automated? In other words, can you track and trace your shipments on they system 24/7

4- Finally, do they have an office or an agent at the destination countries?

Though each cosmetic shipment needs a commercial invoice and a certificate of origin to complete the export formalities, many countries require additional documents. For example, Saudi Arabia requires SASO for all cosmetic shipments. This is a detailed process that involves identifying registering each individual product into their system. Australia requires an import license form the ministry of health as well as GST duty for, which assesses the duty on the products. UAE, however, only requires a proper commercial invoice and a certificate of origins.

With over 32 CFS warehouses in the USA, we cover every single point in the USA including Hawaii and Alaska. Our service includes, designating a qualified representative to be your personal point of contact. Once the order is confirmed, we will contact the supplier and ensure that shipment is ready. If not, we will report to you on a daily basis via telephone or email why the shipment is not ready. We will then dispatch the proper truck to pick up your shipment, bring it back to our warehouse. Our warehouse team will obtain the exact weight and size of the shipment; forward the information electronically to your rep to enable the rep to calculate the shipping cost.

Homeshipping.com is the only site that generates instant rates from anywhere in the USA to your destination. The site will help the importer determine which shipping service is more suitable to his/her need. Our website has been a shipping guide to thousands of importers. It is a great selling tool. Clients who have used our website are able to provide their clients with instant rates instead of two days later.

international shipping - Simple Rules For Packing Your Boxes

Start by dividing your international

shipping

package based on the following:

1-

Heavy items:
Books, Tools

2-

Kitchenware,
Toys

3-

Bulky Items,
stuffed animals,

4-

Large Bulky
Items

5-

Special items,
Car seat, Musical Instrument, Bicycle

B)

Start packing the Heavy items that you are

shipping
to Australia

and other international shipping destinations on the bottom and then the light items at the top

C)

Never exceed 70 lbs in weight. Boxes over 70 lbs are more likely to burst and break

No

play. Use bubble wrap or other items to ensure no movement inside the boxes

E)

Use new boxes, cushion items comfortably. Be generous. Packing is a good investment

How to protect your shipment's contents

According to international shipping services specialists, some items are more easily damaged and can be spoiled if not packed properly when shipping to United Kingdom and shipping to India. Check out these helpful guidelines by a top international shipping company:

Documents

Avoid loose paper. Wrap your brochures in brown or white craft-paper and put the pack in an appropriately sized box or envelope.

Small quantities can be sent directly in an envelope. For larger quantities paper should be placed in a box.

Strap your boxes if possible.

Books

The most sensitive part of the books is the corners. Pack your books in the best quality corrugated fiberboard.

If your books cannot be placed in an envelope, pack the wrapped books inside an appropriately sized box.

Fill in the rest of the box with cushioning material.

Liquids

Secure all liquid containers in order to avoid leaks caused by vibration during transit. Poor packing may cause your shipment to damage other shipments.

Wrap the containers in an water-proof zip lock, if possible, wrap with towels as a sufficient absorbent material to absorb the liquid in case of leaks.

Separate bottles with cushioning material so they do not touch each other.

Maps and blueprints

The best way to ship your blue prints or maps is to roll your maps, plans and blueprints and insert them into a triangular tube. FedEx, DHL and UPS supply these tubes.

Securely seal both ends of the tube.

Sharp items like Scissors and knives

Use heavy-duty cardboard to ensure that all points and edges are fully covered.

Place the heavily wrapped objects inside a box. Use plenty of cushioning material.

Do not allow the sharp items to touch the sides of the container.

Electrical items and electronic equipment

Most manufacturer's packaging is often designed for marketing purposes and LOCAL shipping. Use additional packaging according to the weight, Size and how fragile the item.

Use strong cardboard boxes, allowing sufficient cushioning material to be placed all around the items. {Pre-used} boxes. They break easily.

U-haul, Home Depot and Lows have all types of packaging material help you in your packing.

Toys and games

Most manufacturers' packaging is often designed for marketing purposes and LOCAL shipping. Use additional packaging according to the weight, Size and how fragile the item.

If you are shipping stuffed animals by air, consider that you may buy them cheaper at destination.

shipping to Australia - Import from The USA

 Import from the USA could be clear and comprehensive. And for sending shipments to overseas locations, such as when shipping to Australia, planning ahead is equally important. After you have established a relationship with the Supplier, you need to find a reliable international shipping service to move your shipments from the supplier or suppliers in the USA to your destination. Sometimes, the supplier will recommend a shipping company to handle your shipment, and you may feel that would be your only choice. Its not!!

Here are four tips to watch for when choosing your freight forwarder:

1- What License do they have?

A) FMC (Federal Maritime Commission) Government Body

B) IATA (International Aviation Transportation Agency)

C) FAA TSA approved

2- How long have the company been in business. Typically, a freight forwarder who has been in business for over 10 years, shows more knowledge and stability as new comers

3- Are they fully automated? In other words, can you track and trace your shipments on they system 24/7

4- Finally, do they have an office or an agent at the destination countries?

Import from the USA requires that each shipment needs a commercial invoice and a certificate of origin to complete the export formalities, many countries require additional documents. Usually, the USA supplier generates the commercial invoice and the packing list for their products, yet, sometimes, we consolidate these shipments with other shipments for the same importer to help them save money;

1- Ship all consolidated products as one shipment to save money.

2- Generate ONE consolidated invoice to make it simpler fro clearing customs.

IFor example, Saudi Arabia requires SASO for most industrial shipments. This is a detailed process that involves identifying and registering each individual product into their system. Australia requires an import license form the ministry of health as well as GST duty for, which assesses the duty on the products. UAE, however, only requires a proper commercial invoice and a certificate of origins.

Import from the USA can be tricky if you don't know which port to ship from. With over 32 CFS warehouses in the USA, we cover every single point in the USA including Hawaii and Alaska. Our service includes, designating a qualified representative to be your personal point of contact.

Once the order is confirmed, we will contact your supplier and ensure that shipment is ready. If not, we will report to you on a daily basis via telephone or email why the shipment is not ready. We will then dispatch the proper truck to pick up your shipment, bring it back to our warehouse. Our warehouse team will obtain the exact weight and size of the shipment; forward the information electronically to your rep to enable the rep to calculate the shipping cost.
