Hey

It seems that it works! Huzzah! Anyway, I'm here to rant, since writing things down seem to help me relax. Which I think I'm probably doing now... Anyway. Hey. My Name is Rebeca. I'm currently 15 years old. Loves to read, write, and Anime. My current favourite is Naruto. Yeah, bring all the haters over. I don't really care so there's no point in trying. Though I probably won't talk that much about it here unless I'm like overly excited. Currently in a splint for a damaged ligament (if that's spelled right...) wrist so spelling mistakes are going to be quite common. Going to Midlands expo in Feb 2010, I know it's quite sad to have planned it out already. We only just missed this years one before deciding to go.... But yeah, I'm going to use this sight more or less as a bitch-fest. I mean, which girl doesn't like to bitch and not blog about it!

Have you ever actually wondered how much easier your life would be without a certain person? Yeah. I have. And a LOT! You see currently there are 2 people at my school that annoy me to no end. Seriously. Along with this damn splint on my arm, but it has to be on otherwise it kills to type without it on. But getting back on to main point. Yeah, my life would be so much easier without them. To give you the long story short. Thought they were my friends. Backstabbed. Lied. Went behind my back. Got me into a fight with a friend I never wanted to fight. They are just complete bitches. But moving on to more of the present. I have recently found out that since we broke our friendship, Bethan, one of my 'ex-friends' has been going around telling everyone that I'm basically openly a slut and that I let people lick my legs, especially when I was around 10 years old. Yeah, you read right. I mean, can you seriously picture your 10 year old relative, or remember back to when you were 10 and letting people lick your legs. Would the thought have even crossed your mind? It CERTAINLY didn't cross mine. And apparently people are believing me too. It's not the fact that she called me a slut. I can deal with that. I joke about it with my friends all the time (I'm not really, I hope. Well I've never slept with anyone if that helps in the least....) But yeah, it's more of the fact that she's gone around and said something like that and it's really annoyed me. I know I should just ignore stuff like this, but I just can't. I'm seriously sickened by this. Anyone else? Feel free to tell me I'm an overreacting Narutard that doesn't know my left from my right. It would give me some piece of mine at least :D That's all I can currently think of for the moment anyway! Beca.

Hm.....

Well, I guess I should be more thankful that nothing bad happened today, considering the date and everything. I usually have rotten luck on days like this. But I think I did possibly good today, considering. Like, I was 1 mark away from full marks on my Physics test. I learnt like half of my dance in Irish Dancing. So that is a major accomplishment for me. But on the other hand. James, a fellow band member, has decided that going to play rugby is more important than our practise, for a GCSE exam in two weeks time, on the weekend before! I mean, where's the sense in that. Come on! Help me a bit here to undersant. I mean, I obviously can't perform because of my arm, but there's Adam and Cerys in the band too and he needs to think of them too. Sorry. It's just bad for him to do this at a time like this. Though he probably was guilt tripped into it by the teacher Mr Davies, because he's that kind of person, and he probably got the 'you haven't done anything for the team in a while now James, don't you think you should? But yeah, pretty crap ending to the day. Moving on. Did anyone see the latest Naruto manga? I mean, literal OMG! The fourth Hokage. I was literally screaming. And when Naruto was about to give in to the kyuubi and his seal and his bleeding stomach. That was quite unnerving actually. But moving on, I can't wait to get this filler arc over with in Shippuuden because all the good stuff is about to happen now :D

Not the most interesting day out I've ever been on.

Hey, it's me. Again. -await loud groans- Okay, so today, we went to Catrin's birthday party, which she put a week before her birthday because we have a music GCSE coming up. Which can be thought of as considerate, but considering we've been practising every Saturday so far, some might think otherwise. But yeah, practise was cancelled today because it was Adam's Mums birthday. Happy Birthday to You! But moving on. Usually, when I go out on shopping trips to town, I usually expect to do a lot more than cinema's than just home. Well lets just leave it at a spoilt brats way of saying, on Birthday's I'm used to going out and spending a lot of money, which is why I took like 40 quid out with me today, and came back with 35 quid. The joys these days. But do you guys get where I'm coming from? We did NOTHING! Nothing against you or anything Catrin, your my friend and all, but today was a bit of a shambles in my opinion. But we did see Marley and Me. Isn't that film SO cute! I really enjoyed that, though we were all in like tears by the end of it. I guess it can't be helped these days though. Moving on again though, I went book shopping whilst we were there too, because there's a book I really want to read, well 2 currently, and being the book worm that I am, I had planned on finishing the both of them today. But alas, the world is against me, Saturday the fourteenth must be a bad day for me. I'll have to check my horoscope and see what it says. Back on topic, they didn't have any of the books I was looking for. I asked and they were both out of stock, even though it said on their website that they had some in stock. Jeez, I mean what's up with that. I had like a plan to read all day and have a relaxing day after the rugby match. But I guess again not sll was meant to be and in the end I fell asleep because I was nackered, for unexplainable reasons. Okay, I know that sounds wrong....I have been told I have a sick mind, so this kind of stuff just comes naturally. :D Changing topic again, my legs are KILLING ME at the moment, did I tell you I've just started Irish dancing? And having like THE FATTEST LEGS in the history of FAT LEGS doesn't help. So I'm like going from my 8 stone average lower now... I'm losing all the leg fat...and gaining muscle instead and I have to be honest, It's a painful experience.And yeah, I'm still majorly excited about the next MANGA CHAPTER or NARUTO! I mean, what kind of Narutard can't be? THE FOURTH HOKAGE was in it. Go Yondaime! Sorry about all the caps lock on this today, I've kinda wound myself up, so I guess that doesn't really help....and now that really doesn't make sense. And officially 100 episodes of Shippuuden are out, sucks that it came out in middle of a filler arc too.... I mean this filler arc isn't the best of all filler arcs. It's not going anywhere as far as I can tell at the moment. But I guess you can't have everything. Beggars can't be choosers. So I'll be leaving you now to ponder, while I go and continue writing my story....Beca!

Sorry, but I have to come back. I'm currently feeling compelled to type on here. Seen as though I'm having no luck at all. I've hit a writers block. How great is that? Note the sarcasm by the way. Though I have nothing to talk about currently, I'm just randomly typing and maybe something will come to me by the end. Hopefully.Lately, I've been pondering some thoughts. Nah, it's nothing important, it concerns boys and feelings. And I'm not quite sure on how I feel. And I don't want to bother with typing it down so that EVERYONE can see it. It's not my style. Currently. I guess it'll have to wait for a better time. Or a time where I can be actually bothered to type.So I guess I shall be going again. TO FANFICTION!

Very uneventful day.

So yeah, nothing to talk about today, it was seriously the most nothingness day I've had in a while. I cleaned my room. That's it, and besides writing a couple of chapters of a new fanfic, nothing has happened at all. So I really have nothing to talk about today. Sorry! Beca :D

Man, do I ever get a break?

Nope, that's your simple answer. I am now trying to memorise a Welsh speech for tomorrow. Which is five minutes long. I mean, I can hardly remember who my name is let alone a speech. OKay, maybe that was an overexaggeration. But you know where I'm coming from? I don't know what to do with myself, then I have exams coming up in a couple of weeks and it's just so stressful. I don't know what to do with myself at all. But I guess that's how everyone feels at the moment. So I guess I'm not alone. So I just thought I'd post something since I haven't in a while now. School has taken over my life. So sorry this is short.

So I'm stuck in middle of GCSE's

So I recently started my GCSE's, and boy am I feeling the pinch already, I'm currently supposed to be revising, but my IT teacher hasn't given me any notes to revise, so I'm swamped basically, and I'm just going to go into the exam and hope for the best.

It seems really strange actually, it feels like not that long ago I was saying the exams are a couple of weeks away, and now they're here. Time flies by when you're having fun...yeah...right.

I don't know why I really came on here, it was one of those things and I was thinking, hey, I haven't blogged in a while, why not do it now? Which led me here, I have an English literature exam tomorrow, and IT One, so hopefully the day should be okay, hopefully.

And guess what....well, you shouldn't really know anyway, since you know, I haven't posted before about this, well I don't think I have. My friends and I, recently started a band, which is currently called The Tilt, you can find us mucking around, or being y'know quite crap on youtube under TheTilt09, but we performed properly on Friday, with me on an electric Violin, which was lush by the way, so I could actually be heard, and it was amazing, we had a good response, even if it was from a bunch of old people. And now we've been asked to actually perform for money. I'm chuffed that someone actually wants us to perform, let alone pay us for it. I can't wait, we have to learn a couple of new songs before going on, but we have until July for that, and it's going to be amazing, I'm just so excited.

Just thought I'd share that with you.

Beca.
