What a difference a night makes

Well I decided to leave my computer at work so that I would not drive myself crazy waiting for Joh to come online.

Fortunately, the internet was off so it all worked out. I did really miss him! I am hoping to pull myself out of this zone until I see him tomorrow and he makes me weaker again then I would be back to square one. For now I am doing quite well today unlike Sunday night and yesterday I almost went off my rockers.

God, these love things are something else. I wish he knew that I can give him all the love he needs and more and it seems he can do the same. I still had him in my dreams so that's pretty serious, anyway I'm gonna work this lord,...
