

Sun, 9 Jan 2011

12:39 AM

(no subject)

so when life gets rough and you cant handle things what should you do? in some cases people will fight for what they want and/or believe in. but in the end fighting only makes you tired and restless, and more often than not, empty handed. then there are those that run away, they run for the fear of getting hurt and they keep running for the fear of rejection. half the time we dont even know the difference in the two because of the out comes. so with both concluding the same way, what are people to do?

Security: Public

Location: Not Specified

Mood: Restless

Music:

12:39 AM

(no subject)

so when life gets rough and you cant handle things what should you do? in some cases people will fight for what they want and/or believe in. but in the end fighting only makes you tired and restless, and more often than not, empty handed. then there are those that run away, they run for the fear of getting hurt and they keep running for the fear of rejection. half the time we dont even know the difference in the two because of the out comes. so with both concluding the same way, what are people to do?

Security: Public

Location: Not Specified

Mood: Restless

Music: