Saturday Night

So last Saturday I went with my sister to visit our dad and step mom in Oceanside. On the way home I called John, my boyfriend, and asked him to pick up some Tequila across the street at the liquor store. So he did. When I got home John poured me my first shot. And then came another and another until I had six or seven shots. Tyler was already in bed by that time. So John and I got undressed and had some really awesome sex! We started by doing it on the couch. It was incredible! He put it in and just worked it and it felt so fucking good! Then when I was really getting into it, he went down on me! John rarely does that so I was really pleased. He really knew how to work his tongue, and he specially sucked on my clit. God it felt sooo good! So then we ended up coming upstairs, and taking a shower together. It was kind of sweet because John washed my hair and I washed his. Then we washed each others bodies. Then after that we retreated to the bed, and had more sex! Then I let him do anal sex. I don't know if it was because I was drunk or what, but it just felt so incredible, him being in that part of my body. And through all of that we just kept making out. I felt the most connected with him that night, then I have felt in a really long time. I love him so much and that night just proves, how much I really love him and how much he cares about me. He was so into me that night!
